Hi regarding the Performance Issues:

when I import a folder of images, I have 5GB of memory available to my operating system. After importing, I have an additional 5GB of RAM free. After one year of using Lightroom 5.1, I have not noticed any slow down in menu navigation or performance; as well, the file browser stays open - even with hundreds of images in my catalog.

I do favor the increased performance, and the fact that I can now have a picture in my catalog without having to leave the file browser open, as well as the ability to know at a glance, what DNGs are in the main file browser - instead of having the smart previews open in a separate window.

Regards!

Holger from Namibia

Lightroom 5 saved a couple of my TPGBAs. JPEG Previews. The default is Tiny and I found out about that during an export. The other also happened with exporting, it was 20MB. This is on top of more, larger and better files I have worked on. I still wouldn't back up or auto sync because of that.
